ABOUT OUR PRICING CATEGORIES

Community organizations, libraries and schools pay a higher price for our video documentaries in order to obtain public screening rights, which grants permission to screen the video before a public audience or to be used in a classroom. Turning Tide Productions is committed to producing cutting-edge social issue video documentaries. Video sales and speaking engagements are our primary means of generating the revenue necessary to support the independent production and distribution of our videos. If you believe your organization fits into one of these categories but does not have the resources to afford that price, please contact us.
